BAPCPA REQUIRED NOTICE NO. 1 (§ 342(b)(1) and 527(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code) PURPOSES, BENEFITS AND COSTS OF BANKRUPTCY

This discussion is intended only as a brief overview of the types of bankruptcy. You should not decide whether or not to file for bankruptcy relief solely on this information. Bankruptcy law is complex, and there are many considerations that must be taken into account in making the determination whether or not to file. Anyone considering bankruptcy is encouraged to make a decision only after seeking the advice and assistance of an experienced bankruptcy attorney.

When a person is discharged in bankruptcy, he or she is relieved from liability for most debts incurred before the bankruptcy was filed and protected from future collection of those debts. The purpose of bankruptcy is to give you a "fresh start," and the bankruptcy code is interpreted by the Courts to give effect to these words.

Types of Bankruptcy

The Bankruptcy Code is divided into chapters. The chapters that usually apply to consumers are Chapter 7, where most or all of your debt is wiped out, and Chapter 13, which involves a repayment plan.

In most cases, once you file your case, the "Automatic Stay" immediately goes into effect. The Automatic Stay means that a bankruptcy filing automatically stops, or stays, and brings to a halt most lawsuits, repossessions, foreclosures, evictions, garnishments, attachments, utility shut-offs, and debt collection harassment. Generally, creditors cannot take any further action against you or your property without permission from the Bankruptcy Court.

Chapter 7. Chapter 7 is designed for people who are having financial difficulties and are not able to re-pay their debts.

Under the changes to the Bankruptcy Code that took effect October 17, 2005, you can usually qualify for a Chapter 7 if your average gross monthly income for the last six months is below your state's Median Income, your gross income less certain expenses is below your state's Median Income, or you can show "special circumstances" that would allow you to qualify for Chapter 7. The filing fee for a Chapter 7 is $306.00.

Under Chapter 7, you can usually exempt, or keep, most or all of your assets under the law of your state of residence, or, if you have not lived in your resident state for the past two years, under the state's exemption law that applies to your case. Most retirement accounts and pensions are also exempt. Secured property, normally your car and house, may not have any net equity, in which case you can keep it as well. The Trustee liquidates most non-exempt property and uses the proceeds to pay your creditors according to priorities of the Bankruptcy Code.

Once your Chapter 7 case is over, you receive a Discharge. The discharge prevents your creditors from taking any steps to try to collect their unsecured debt. They cannot call you, write you, sue you, or take any steps that could be considered an attempt to collect its debt. If you want to keep property that has a lien on it, you must keep your payments current, and may be required to reaffirm your debt. Some debts cannot be discharged. Typical examples are child support, alimony, and other domestic support obligations, some taxes, student loans, criminal restitution, and debts for death or personal injury caused by operating vehicles while intoxicated with alcohol or drugs.

Chapter 13. Chapter 13 is a valuable tool that lets you catch up overdue mortgage or car payments, taxes and domestic support obligations. It also applies where you have the ability to repay some or all of your debts over time. You must have less than $307,675 in unsecured debt (such as credit cards and doctor's bills) and less than $922,975 in secured debt (such as mortgages and car loans) to qualify for Chapter 13. The filing fee for a Chapter 13 is $281.00.

Under Chapter 13, you keep all of your property, both exempt and non-exempt, as long as you resume making your regular payments on secured debt and keep current under the repayment plan that you propose. A repayment plan can last for up to five years. After finishing your payments, most of your unsecured debts are discharged.

Chapter 11. Chapter 11 is designed primarily for business reorganization, but is also available to consumer debtors. Its provisions are quite complex. In the vast majority of cases, Chapter 11 is unnecessary and too expensive for most consumer debtors. The filing fee for Chapter 11 is $1,039.00.

Chapter 12. Chapter 12 lets family farmers repay their debts over a period of time, and is in many ways similar to a Chapter 13. The filing fee for a Chapter 12 is $239.00.

Credit Counseling. Reputable credit counselors can advise you on managing your money and your debts. They may also be able to develop a plan to repay your debts. Unfortunately, many credit counselors are not reputable and charge high fees and contributions that will cause you to fall deeper into debt and damage your credit rating. Furthermore, many misrepresent their non-profit status and/or their affiliations with religious or charitable organizations, and are little more than collection agents for the credit card companies.

Under the changes to the Bankruptcy Code that took effect October 17, 2005, you are required to take two short credit counseling courses, one before you file bankruptcy, and one after you have filed. We will refer you to a reputable credit counselor who has been approved by the United States Trustee Department for these courses.

BAPCPA REQUIRED NOTICE NO. 2 (§ 527(a)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code) NOTICE OF MANDATORY DISCLOSURE TO CONSUMERS WHO CONTEMPLATE FILING BANKRUPTCY

- 1. All information that the assisted person is required to provide with a petition thereafter during a case under this title is required to be complete, accurate and truthful.
- 2. All assets and all liabilities are required to be completely and accurately disclosed in the documents filed to commence the case, and the replacement value of each asset as defined in section 506 must be stated in those documents where requested after reasonable inquiry to establish such value.
- 3. Current monthly income, the amounts specified in section 707(b)(2) and, in a case under chapter 13 of this title, disposable income (determined in accordance with section 707(b)(2)), are required to be stated after reasonable inquiry; and
- 4. Information that an assisted person provides during their case may be audited pursuant to this title, and that failure to provide such information may result in dismissal of the case under this title or other sanction, including a criminal sanction.

BAPCPA REQUIRED NOTICE NO. 3 (§ 342(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code) FRAUD & CONCEALMENT PROHIBITED

If you decide to file bankruptcy, it is important that you understand the following:

BAPCPA REQUIRED NOTICE NO. 4 (§ 527(b) of the Bankruptcy Code) IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT BANKRUPTCY ASSISTANCE SERVICES

If you decide to seek bankruptcy relief, you can represent yourself, you can hire an attorney to represent you, or you can get help in some localities from a bankruptcy petition preparer who is not an attorney. THE LAW REQUIRES AN ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARER TO GIVE YOU A WRITTEN CONTRACT SPECIFYING WHAT THE ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARER WILL DO FOR YOU AND HOW MUCH IT WILL COST. Ask to see the contract before you hire anyone.

The following information helps you understand what must be done in a routine bankruptcy case to help you evaluate how much service you need. Although bankruptcy can be complex, many cases are routine. An attorney can help guide you through this intricate process, making it easier and less stressful for you.

Before filing a bankruptcy case, either you or your attorney should analyze your eligibility for different forms of debt relief available under the Bankruptcy Code and which form of relief is most likely to be beneficial for you. Be sure you understand the relief you can obtain and its limitations. To file a bankruptcy case, documents called a Petition, Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs, as well as in some cases a Statement of Intention need to be prepared correctly and filed with the bankruptcy court. You will have to pay a filing fee to the bankruptcy court. Once your case starts, you will have to attend the required first meeting of creditors where you will be questioned by a court official called a "trustee" and, much more rarely, by creditors.

If you choose to file a chapter 7 case, you may be asked by a creditor to reaffirm a debt. You may want help deciding whether to do so. A creditor is not permitted to coerce you into reaffirming your debts. It may not be in your best interest to reaffirm a debt.

If you choose to file a chapter 13 case in which you repay your creditors what you can afford over 3 to 5 years, you may also want help with preparing your chapter 13 plan and with the confirmation hearing on your plan which, if held, will be before a bankruptcy judge.

If you select another type of relief under the Bankruptcy Code other than chapter 7 or chapter 13, you will want to find out what should be done from someone familiar with that type of relief. However, please be advised that in most cases, you will only be concerned with chapter 7 and chapter 13.

Your bankruptcy case may also involve litigation. You are generally permitted to represent yourself in litigation in bankruptcy court, but only attorneys, not bankruptcy petition preparers, can give you legal advice.

NOTICE TO CHAPTER 7 CLIENTS REGARDING EXECUTION OF REAFFIRMATION AGREEMENTS

Please be advised that as part of your Chapter 7 bankruptcy petition filing there is a document called AStatement of Intention@. This document indicates your intentions with respect to your obligations regarding secured debt. The most common example of secured debt is a house and a car. Having a secured debt also means that a creditor can repossess the collateral in the event payments are not made.

At the time secured debt is created there are essentially two transactions occurring at one time. The first part of the transaction is a Note which is sometimes better understood as an AIOU@. It is you personal obligation on the note that allows a creditor to pursue you after repossession and sale of the collateral (i.e. after the sale of house or the car or other security pledged). The second part of the transaction is a Security Interest in the object that was purchased. The security interest in a home purchase transaction is the home itself. This transaction is generally referred to as a "Mortgage". In a vehicle purchase, the security interest is in the automobile purchased. In a vehicle purchase the security interest is created by placing a lien on the motor vehicle title.

When one files Bankruptcy, the Note, (in other words the "IOU"), portion of the debt is extinguished after the Entry of Discharge. In other words, you are no longer personally liable. However, the secured creditor's lien rights with relation to the collateral, (i.e. the house or the car), are not extinguished. Accordingly, the creditor has the right to repossess the collateral if payments are not made post-bankruptcy.

With the foregoing background information in mind, you may be asked by some secured creditors to sign a AReaffirmation Agreement@. This agreement personally re-obligates you on the Note or IOU portion of the obligation. Accordingly, in the event of a future nonpayment, not only can the secured creditor repossess the collateral, and sell it at a public auction, the secured creditor can also seek a deficiency balance (i.e. any remaining balance due on the IOU after the sale), directly from you even though you have filed bankruptcy.

For this reason, I DO NOT recommend that individuals sign Reaffirmation Agreements after filing Bankruptcy. The reason for this is that if you do NOT sign the Reaffirmation Agreement and the secured creditor repossesses the collateral for nonpayment, then this is the creditor's only remedy. In other words, they may not seek direct payment for any deficiency against you post-Bankruptcy. As a result, if the collateral is ever repossessed for nonpayment, you are free and clear of the debt. You may in effect "walk away" from the obligation.

However, a potential problem that may arise when not signing a reaffirmation agreement is that the secured creditor may take the position that, in the absence of the executed reaffirmation agreement, whether you are current or not current, they are entitled to repossess the collateral. I view the likelihood of the collateral being repossessed when payments are current and being made on an ongoing basis, to be unlikely with most creditors. However, some creditors such as Ford Motor Credit and Chrysler Credit will repossess the collateral even if payments are current. If you have one of these creditors then you must sign a reaffirmation agreement to continue using the collateral.

It is my opinion that it is worth taking the risk of repossession in order to avoid a deficiency judgment in the future in the event of non-payment. As we all know, negative financial situations are just as likely to occur after Bankruptcy as they are before. In the event of a death, divorce, dissolution or job loss, you may find yourself unable to make payments on secured debt that you previously wanted to keep. If such a thing should happen after Bankruptcy, you will be doing appropriate planning by not signing a Reaffirmation Agreement.

Another potential problem is that creditors may sometimes refuse to provide information, payoffs, or send monthly statements to persons who have not signed a reaffirmation agreement. In my experience, this information is eventually provided once the Bankruptcy discharge is entered. In my opinion, it is worth this minor nuisance to gain the advantage of being able to Awalk away@ from a house or car in the future without adverse financial consequences.
